

Washington, D.C. - U.S. Rep. David Price (D-NC) contributed an article on the intersection of faith and politics to the Fall 2007 edition of Reflections, a publication of Yale Divinity School. In the article, Price writes, "both our faith and our politics require the exploration of the wellsprings of our own vision for society and of the way our deepest values should shape public policy."

Read the full article here .

#